

Rockwell Collins Craft Club Newsletter November 2014

Craft show season has arrived!
The Rockwell one will have already taken place by the time you read this. Craft Shows and Church Suppers seem to be everywhere you look this time of year. I signed up for "The Square" today, that little thing that attaches to your smart phone. It will enable me to take credit and debit cards at the craft shows I am in. Will let you know how it all works out. It is free to get, but they charge a 2.75% fee per transaction. I know many of you are busy little bees getting ready for the Rockwell Craft Fair. We should all be thankful for those lovely ladies who do all the work of organizing and putting it on And they do it all for free.

- ☀ Tasty pizza and marvelous bingo prizes were had by all at last months meeting. Jean did a great job of buying almost EXACTLY the right amount of pizza. Way to save $$$ Jean! And thank you to those that donated some bingo prizes from home..
- ☀ Our craft project this month is an adorable Snowman Family. We will use wooden paint stir sticks to make them. You can customize them to however many family members you want. If you have any fleece scraps that you want to bring for making their hats, please do so. We do have some, but a wider choice is always good. If you have lots of small buttons in your stash, bring some of those too. Thanks go out to Joel Gillett of the Woodworker's Guild for cutting all our different size snowman family members for us. Our family members will be hinged together with little brass hinges, which I found on eBay. You may want to bring a plastic bag or a flat box to carry your family home in.
- ☀ Our charity for this month will be Wounded Warriors. We will do this for December also. We will be collecting cash.
- ☀ Patti Little has resigned as Membership Chairman. We need someone to volunteer for this job. The main task is just collecting the new year's forms and dues and turning them in to the Treasurer. Attendance at the monthly board meeting is encouraged, but would not be necessary if you don't want to do that part.
- ☀ Jean Strait has loaned lots of books out to people. If you have any of these, please return them to Jean as soon as you're done.
